About This Game

Space Food Truck is a cooperative, culinary sci-fi adventure. 1-4 players take on unique roles aboard the Galaxy Gourmet. Their mission: explore a vast, procedurally-generated galaxy in search of exotic ingredients, craft delicious recipes, and build a powerful collection of items and abilities to withstand the untold dangers of deep space.

Gameplay

Your team's goal is to complete all of your recipe objectives, which means collecting ingredients, crafting each dish, and taking it to the planet that's craving it. Each of the four unique roles aboard your ship contribute in their own way, and they'll all need to work in concert to succeed! Just like on a real space food truck.

- The Captain plots your ship's course, scouring the galaxy for stronger items and tastier ingredients.
- The Chef collects ingredients that other players discover and crafts them into delicious dishes. He occasionally eats his own cards.
- The Scientist researches each of the roles on your ship, choosing which crew members to empower with new abilities. He'll sometimes stumble upon artificial ingredients.
- The Engineer repairs and upgrades the ship, which is constantly pummeled by misfortune.

Each character begins the game with a small deck of 10 cards, which you'll play to move around the ship and do your job. You must add a card to your personal deck each turn, and you'll be reshuffling and drawing items and abilities from it all game long. Your goal is to assemble the strongest, most versatile collection possible to do your job, and ultimately bring honor and glory to your food truck.

DISAPPOINTED!

Galaxy Gourmet posted that they were visiting our humble corner of the galaxy today, and then they never even showed up with the food. I feel like this was the worst day of my life, and by extension, all our lives. I hope they go out of business, and that their children go out of business, and that their children's children are never even born. A plague on all their houses.

Main Menu

- Look at the amount of hours people have played this game before reviewing. That's about "how much" you can get out of the game. I do recommend waiting for a steam sale.
 - This game has RNG which is not very friendly towards the player, BUT the game has no turn timer meaning that planning ahead is heavily encouraged.
 - There is a standard meta to follow every run (prioritize items for engineer > chef > scientist > pilot) with possible deviations based on specific circumstances. As the difficulty increases the creative freedom decreases.
 - There is online multiplayer, apparently. I cannot say much more about it.
 - I enjoy playing this the same way I enjoy FTL, although the gameplay is quite different (FTL is combat-focused whereas Space Food Truck is solely about gathering ingredients)
 - The game does suffer from a lack of replayability, for that reason the RNG will mess you up very often, prolonging the playtime in an unpleasant way.

I really wish the game had side-quests and varying story-driven sequences to improve replayability, that's my biggest gripe with an otherwise solid game.
